The Poetry Everywhere Collection on Teachers' Domain offers multimedia teaching tools

CHICAGO — Poetry comes to life in the classroom with the Poetry Everywhere Collection, the latest addition to Teachers' Domain, an online library of K–12 resources including lesson plans, background essays, and customizable features for introducing media resources into the classroom. Drawn from the PBS Poetry Everywhere series and produced in partnership with the Poetry Foundation, this free web-based teaching tool of videos, background essays, and lesson plans helps teachers and students explore the power of language and build reading and writing skills. The ten videos capture some of the seminal voices of poetry, past and present, from Walt Whitman and Emily Dickinson to Seamus Heaney, Marie Howe, and Yusef Komunyakaa. Preview the collection at <http://www.teachersdomain.org/exhibits/pe08-ex/index.html>.

The Poetry Everywhere Collection contains videos of ten poems either read by the poets themselves or noted interpreters (actress Mary Louis Parker, playwright Tony Kushner, poet Robert Hass), or presented in animated form (Emily Dickinson). Two sample poetry lesson plans are available, and each selection includes a background essay, teaching tips, and relevant NCTE standards. The poets represented in this collection are:

Philip Levine
Seamus Heaney
Billy Collins
Kobayashi Issa
Yusef Komunyakaa
Marie Howe
Emily Dickinson
Mark Strand
Walt Whitman
Lucille Clifton

After reviewing the site, Eric Selinger, Teachers' Domain project advisor and Associate Professor of English at DePaul University, noted, "I'm thrilled to see the new Poetry Everywhere collection on Teachers' Domain. The videos offer students firsthand introductions to how poems are read and performed, and the discussion questions and lesson plans offer much-needed support for teachers, as well as lively writing prompts to inspire students to write poems of their own." Poetry Everywhere is suitable for use inside or outside the classroom.

Complete access to the collection and its resources is available after completing a free registration process at www.teachersdomain.org/. Produced by WGBH Boston and David Grubin Productions, in association with the Poetry Foundation, Poetry Everywhere is designed to take a fresh look at poetry using a variety of production approaches.
